On to Hudson's Bay

The Northern Outlet Now an Assured Fact—One Hundred and Eighty Miles of

The H.E.R. Will be Built This Year, and Two Hundred each Succeeding Year.

OTTAWA, March 1.—Your correspondent is in a position to announce that Hugh Sutherland has about successfully closed his negotiations with the Government, under which work will be actively commenced immediately on the Winnipeg and Great Northern Railway, and 180 miles built this year. The negotiations had progressed well up to the time of Sir John Thompson's departure for England. His death caused some delay; but now all obstacles are removed and the contract entered into between the government and the company has been confirmed by an order-in-council and the result will be that the railway to Hudson Bay will be constructed at the rate of 200 miles a year. Your correspondent saw Mr. Sutherland this morning and asked him for particulars of the arrangements, but he declined to make any statement until the details were completed.

The contractor for building the Hudson Bay road are: Wm. MacKenzie, of Toronto; Donald D. Mann, of Montreal; Jas. Isbister, of Ottawa; all men of experience and tried ability. The latter has been seriously ill for the past fortnight but is now recovering.—North-West.

South Qu'Appelle Agricultural Society.

A meeting of the above mentioned society was held in the Council Chamber, Qu'Appelle, on Saturday, the 2nd inst. About twenty directors were present. The president in the chair.

Minutes of last meeting read and adopted. An account was presented from the Qu'Appelle Printing and Publishing Co., (Ltd.), which on the motion of Jas. Smith, seconded by A. Matheson was ordered to be paid.

Moved by H. B. Sperling, seconded by A. Matheson, that J. Doolittle be re-appointed secretary-treasurer for the current year at a salary of $25, and that it be left to the discretion of the directors as to the allowance for extras. Carried.

Moved by A. Matheson, seconded by W. Henley, that the Secretary be instructed to communicate to His Honor the Lieut.-Governor the nature of the answers received from the different societies re Territorial Exhibition. Carried.

Moved by W. Henley, seconded by T. C. Bunn, that the Secretary urge upon Mr. J. R. Neft the advisability of there being no unnecessary delay in forwarding the seed grain, as seed time is now rapidly approaching. Carried.

Moved by W. Henley, seconded H. B. Sperling, that Messdames Fraser, Atkinson and Henley act as lady directors, with power to add to their number. Carried.

Moved by H. B. Sperling, seconded by W. Henley, that the Secretary-Treasurer renew his bonds for 1895. Carried.

Moved by A. Matheson, seconded by W. Henley, that a fee of ten cents be charged for entering the hall on day of exhibition. Carried.

Moved by J. Howden, seconded by A. Matheson, that Messrs. Sperling, Boyce and the President be a committee to make arrangements about the mill, and report at next meeting. Carried.

Moved by J. Howden, seconded by H. B. Sperling, that Messrs. Caldwell, the President, Boyce and Edmunds, be a committee to investigate the freight rates. Carried.

Moved by W. Henley, seconded by H. B. Sperling, that the society tender their sincere thanks to the ladies of Qu'Appelle for their very valuable services in preparing the spread at our late reunion. Carried.

Moved by W. Henley, seconded by H. B. Sperling, that whereas, in the opinion of this society, we have good reasons for believing that contagious and infectious diseases exist to a considerable extent among the cattle throughout the Territory; whereas it is deemed necessary by this society that steps should be taken immediately for the purpose of eradicating the disease, and further, to urge upon the Dominion Government the appointing of a qualified official veterinary to make tests and examinations, when called upon by parties who have cattle showing symptoms of said disease, and that a copy of this resolution be forwarded to the Dominion Government and His Honor the Lieut.-Governor. Carried.

Moved by Bunn, seconded by W. Henley, that Caldwell, Bunn, Edmunds and the President be a committee to gather all the possible evidence to show that we, as a people of the Northwest Territories, are very much handicapped and the headway of the country retarded, by the unjust and excessively high freight rates of the C.P.R., and that said committee after gathering and condensing such evidence into a petition form and have under such petition, in three separate columns, the names of members of all the Municipal Councils, Boards of Trade and Agricultural Societies throughout the Northwest Territories, and on completion to forward copies of the same in duplicate to the C.P.R. and Dominion Government, asking for redress. Carried. Meeting then adjourned.

About Abernethy.

All lovers of tobogganing should not fail to patronize Mr. Baxter's slide on section 13, Pheasant Creek. This is one of Canada's most exciting open air sports. The slide is a natural one, surrounded by the rugged scenes of nature, and some of those who have made the descent claim that it is equal to the famous slides on Mount Royal.

Old St. Valentine did not forget us, and made the boys laugh and grow fat. The "Ball Twirler," "Jumping Jack" and "Stump Speaker" being especially good. Dear old Saint, we wish you well, and hope to see you again next year.

Invitations are out for a social hop at the residence of Wm. Thompson. Judging from the hospitality shown by Mr. and Mrs. Thompson on former occasions, we have no doubt but that those who attend will spend an enjoyable evening.

One of our bachelors intends taking a business trip in the near future. When he returns he will be in a better position to give an account of his success.

The approach of the fine weather was heralded by the yelping of the coyote and the howling of that nocturnal visitor of the hen-roost, the owl.

Mr. McKenzie of Indian Head, appears in the school house on Wednesday evening with a magic lantern, comic entertainment, etc.

The school trustees of Abernethy school have engaged Miss Geddes of Kenlis, to improve the intellect of the juveniles of this district.

Fires.

Toronto was again visited by fire on Sunday morning, T. Eaton's and many other business houses being consumed. Loss, over a million.

The business portion of Neche, N.D., was completely wiped out by fire on Saturday morning. Loss, $30,000.

Brazil will pay 500,000 francs to France to indemnify families of Frenchmen shot during the revolution.

Morgan, the Virginian train robber, has been sentenced to 18 years imprisonment.

Large shipments of lumber are being made from Vancouver to South Africa.

Notes By The Way

The Duke of York's Probable Visit to the Northwest This Summer.

Rules to be Observed While in a Printing Office—Cheese.

I had occasion, some years ago, to call on a certain printer, and in that part of his establishment known as the shop, I saw a pile of cards on the counter, upon each of which was clearly printed the following: Notice: 1. When you enter, leave the door wide open, or else shut it with a bang. 2. If you have no business, stop as long as possible. Perch on the counter, and kick the paint off with your heels, or keep up a tapping with your cane. We like it. 3. Smoke furiously, and drop your ash among the paper; expectorate freely, don't mind where. 4. Whistle or hang about and talk nonsense for an hour or so; it will pass your time away, it doesn't matter about us. 5. Thumb our goods all over, and there may be some letters open that will interest you; our business isn't private. 6. Any time you are our way give us a look in. I questioned the facetious printer, respecting his humorous way of giving a hint, and was told that the cards in question had had a most salutary effect in making conspicuous by their absence a certain class of persons who had hitherto been a perfect nuisance.

Much has been said and written of late, both in the Old Country and in Canada, about the probable trip of the Duke of York to this country and Australia. Montreal wishes the Duke to preside at the ceremonies attending the extension of the McGill University this year. Perhaps His Royal Highness might be induced to open the forthcoming exhibition at Regina. If such a thing could be achieved there is little doubt but that much good would result.

Among the nutritious foods, cheese may certainly be classed. It contains many elements of sustaining life, and people who can eat it find it nourishing and healthful; but unfortunately everybody cannot eat cheese with impunity.

Men who live much in the open air and work hard can digest it, but the majority of people who live and work indoors—the gentler sex, for example—can only partake of it as a relish now and then. Yet twenty pounds of cheese, it is stated on sound authority, contains as much nutriment as a sheep of sixty pounds weight, and it is the same value as practical nutriment if it could be easily digested. But a distinguished English chemist comes to our aid and suggests a remedy for the indigestibility of this delectable dairy product. It is to add the bi-carbonate of potash to cheese, and he prepares it as follows: Cut the cheese into shreds, grate or chop it up fine, like suet; to every pound of cheese add a quarter of an ounce of bi-carbonate of potash; put the resulting mixture into a saucepan with three times its bulk of water or four times its bulk of cold milk, and mix well together; then place it on the stove and let it simmer, stirring all the time until the cheese is melted, which does not take long. Turn out into a dish and the result is a nutritious mixture, which thickens like a custard in cooling. Cheese prepared in this way may be eaten with impunity by persons whom a small piece of ordinary cheese would sicken. It is the absence of the potash from the ordinary cheese that makes it unwholesome. All those persons who are afraid of cheese in its usual form, have but to pay our worthy and genial Dr. Carthew a visit, purchase a few ounces of bi-carbonate of potash, which is cheap, and they can ever after snap their fingers at that demon indigestion.

Edgeley Echoes.

Mr. Douglas' speech at Yorkton, some little time back (which your correspondent read from the Patrons' Advocate), will put all followers of the glorious game of curling on their mettle. In speaking of what he called some of the so-called tariff reforms which were lately made by the present Government, he mentions curling stones and cotton as some of the articles for commutation; indeed he compared the duties of the above, remarking that cotton had been increased 10 per cent., whereas curling stones, which formerly paid 35 per cent., were placed on the free list. Your correspondent was not aware that there was so large an importation of the latter articles as to make much difference in our revenue, but when so learned a man as Mr. Douglas should pick them out and talk about them in comparison with cotton, it must be the case; this also is an example of the present Government's misdeeds in the past. It will be a great hardship for some of our friends if this tax is again imposed upon us. So beware, ye curlers, when voting day comes round! We have but little pleasure during the cold, cold winter, and our climate is far too severe for out-door sports, such as running or trotting fast horses.

The claus have been gathering throughout the settlement, together with their respective retainers. On Friday evening last, a selected sleigh load from amid our community, drove out to the house of Mr. Johnston of Poplar Plains, to a ball. Everything was got up in the most elaborate manner, the music was superb, consisting of two violins and an accordion. The celebrated violinist from Pilot Butte also rendered some masterpieces, which fairly brought down the house. Dancing was kept up till after sunrise when the guests departed, having thoroughly enjoyed themselves, everyone remarking it was the ball of the season.

Settlers are taking advantage of the fine weather and are rustling home the firewood. It is to be hoped they go well armed, for the late ejection of so many policemen is alarming, and the wily savage will not be the last to notice the uncommon scarcity of the guardians of the law.

Lorlie Lisplings.

Mr. Edwin Aldous has secured the fine 3-year-old gelding Young Derby, formerly owned by Cantelon Bros. He is a grand colt and a good advertisement to his sire Lord Derby, still owned by Master Edwin. We farmers can no longer close our eyes to the fact that the Derby colts are going to make the general-purpose horse most suitable for the country; possessing a grand color, good bone and superior action. Mr. Aldous will be pleased to make arrangements with you for the coming season.

Mr. and Mrs. Barnsley were taken entirely by surprise the other evening, when two sleighs drove up to the house full of young people, one from Kenlis and one from Pheasant Forks. The party soon found themselves at home under the genial smiles of reception, and a pleasant evening was spent.

Who is the young lady that sent a certain bachelor a rich fruit cake and pie?

Be careful, A.I.
The cake may not digest;
Be careful, I say,
The pie is but a test!

Miss Barnsley, in company with her brother, is visiting friends at Kenlis.

Mr. Small held a missionary service at this appointment last Sunday.

Mr. Pinder of the Forks, passed through town, going west.

This fine weather may thaw out your "hard times" correspondent.

Miss Barnsley will call on you shortly for aid in the mission field.

Do you want anything in the line of route bills or pedigree cards?

Indian Head Items

A Checker Match at Katepwa—Indian Headers Come Off Winners.

Mr. Osment Constructs a Steam Pinnace—Personal Mention—Idlers.

Your correspondent has had several conversations with men around town who have been unable to obtain steady or even an occasional days work this winter. All admit they have no trade. This is a significant fact. No man able to do one thing well need ever be long out of a remunerative job, and few such are ever found playing the role of Micawber. The lesson is plain to every parent; to every boy. Let a boy learn to do something, and to do it well. Of the inmates of penitentiaries and penal institutions fully two-thirds are men who never learned a trade, but passed their young days in idling and shiftlessness.

On Saturday, five of Indian Head's checker players, Messrs. W. D. Fishleigh, J. Glenn, W. Waite, J. Stirling and — Mitchell drove to Katepwa and met five skilled players of that vicinity in a friendly contest. Messrs. Galbraith, Wright, McClelland, Peltier and Bates, represented Katepwa's quintette. At the close of the games the result attained was Indian Head, 12; Katepwa, 8.

A guessing competition is in progress at Stutter's candy store. Purchasers to the extent of 25c are entitled to guess the number of nuts contained in a glass jar, and the person estimating the number, or nearest the number contained therein, will receive a valuable prize. The competition closes Nov. 14th.

The annual concert of the Mutual Improvement society, of Rose Valley, will be held at the Rose Valley schoolhouse, on Friday, 15th inst. Talent will be drawn from all points of the district. With this assurance the concert should prove successful from a financial standpoint.

On Monday A. J. Osment left for Katepwa to superintend the erection of a new boat house. In his leisure hour this winter he has constructed a steam pinnace, which is to be drawn to the lake and launched in the spring.

Const. Rose, who was withdrawn from this point and stationed at Qu'Appelle Station during the absence of Staff, Sergt. Des Barres, has returned to duty here.

The Forrester's have sent out many invitations and are making every preparation for their dances on the 12th. A very enjoyable evening is predicted.

Harry Fishleigh left last week for the Chicago hospitals, to undergo treatment for spinal trouble.

Major Bell arrived on Thursday, and has remained in the vicinity for the past few days.

Chickney Chirpings.

Wolves have been very numerous in the district lately. A large pack, which has been prowling in the vicinity of the Evans' hermitage, secured an entrance to the Johnston Bros' larder and succeeded in detaching the hams from a couple of dressed porkers.

Wood-haulers, beware! The section 37 racket is played out, and the burly form of the wood inspector for the Ontario and Qu'Appelle land has been seen in the distance.

We have at last organized a school district and are fast beginning to don the garb of civilization. School will be held in Mr. Chipperfield's vacant house.

Mr. Wm. Tate, who has been rusticiating at Qu'Appelle Station, has returned and is now domiciled with Mr. Maze for the balance of he winter.

THE RED CROSS MOVEMENT.

The published accounts of the war in the far east pay a signal tribute to the power and prestige of the badge that has done so much to alleviate the horrors of modern war—the Red Cross of Geneva. The history of the Red Cross movement is a remarkable one. Thirty-five years ago a Swiss gentleman, who happened to witness Louis Napoleon's victory over the Austrians at Solferino, wrote a pamphlet describing the awful scenes of the battlefield, where wounded and dying men lay for days without attention. He went on to suggest the formation of societies for supplying medical aid in time of war; societies which would be strictly neutral in their services, and should receive a guarantee of immunity and protection from all civilized governments. The suggestion bore fruit with surprising rapidity. In 1864 representatives of sixteen nations met at Geneva and signed the well known convention that bears that city's name. The United States—where Miss Clara Barton was the great leader of the movement—were not among the original signers, but they joined by act of Congress during President Arthur's administration; and it was from America that the idea was introduced into Japan, where a national Red Cross Association was formed eight years ago. Last September the Mikado, who is president of this organization, directed his war minister to order the strict observation of the Geneva treaty by the Japanese forces. The merciful rules, which protect the disabled soldier, irrespective of his allegiance, have been faithfully carried out by at least one of the combatant parties in eastern Asia.

THE HUDSON'S BAY ROAD.

The news sent by our Ottawa correspondent, that Mr. Sutherland had finally completed arrangements with the Federal Government, so that the construction of the Hudson's Bay railway can be commenced this season, will be welcome news to all who have the welfare of this country at heart. To some, in whom patriotic instincts are deficient, the information will be a disappointment, as they have constantly denied the possibility of such an arrangement having been effected by the representatives of the Northwest as would commit the Government to further aiding this enterprise. There are also some newspapers who have neither patriotic instincts nor decent regard for the feelings of those who differ from them in opinion; who will deride and belittle both the project and the projectors. But the people of the Northwest will hail with satisfaction the fact that the Government has seen fit to encourage the only enterprise which promises to relieve this country from the burden monopoly.—Nor'-Wester.

A good word for Canada and its States. The Chicago Tribune says: "There is no part of the English-speaking world that has stood the depression as well as Canada, and, consequently, no government in the English-speaking world is in better form to ask the people for a renewal of confidence."

The Retraction.

To the Editor THE PROGRESS.

SIR,—James Gibbens replies to "Querist" in your last issue in such a mild, gentlemanly (assumed, no doubt, or perhaps another's production), and apparently forcible manner, that to those not personally acquainted with the facts, he is made to appear as an injured innocent.

When Mr. Gibbens requests me to prove charges, it is evident in his haste and usual excitement, that he has not read my letter aright. I did not say that Klyne was influenced against his inclinations, but stated for a fact that he (Klyne) took a declaration to that effect, which I now repeat, giving as well the names of the witnesses and magistrate before whom it was taken. Witnesses, Clem Pelletier, A. Hamilton and C. Johnston, and W. R. Motherwell as J.P. It must therefore be apparent to the intelligent reader that the false statement, if any, lies between Klyne and Mr. Gibbens himself.

It was not my desire or intention, at first, to unduly expose the shameful language and utter disregard for the ordinary rules of propriety that has characterized Mr. Gibbens' attitude in this Railway By-law contest, but now that he has put on such a brazen front and even cautioned me (by way of a mild bluff) to beware of what I write, it is evident that any leniency extended towards him in the future would be very much like "Casting pearls before swine." Mr. Gibbens, on arriving at the polling station, marched his man Klyne into the booth, and when the oath was being read and explained to the faltering voter, remarked, "He can take it," "He will swear." And, furthermore, as the Returning Officer was explaining the ballot to Klyne, with it yet in his hand, Mr. Gibbens actually stepped forward into the booth and with extended hand towards the ballot, indicated when Klyne was to vote.

At this juncture the returning officer requested him (Gibbens) to leave the room, as he had overstepped the mark, to which Mr. Gibbens had the audacity to reply that he had as much right there as others, or words to that effect.

The gentlemanly returning officer, probably thought it better to grant the offender a "fool's pardon" rather than to enforce the stern rigors of the law, by fining him smartly, as he might have done. I will be merciful to Mr. Gibbens and not expose him further. It must be apparent to the public that instead of doing Mr. Gibbens any injustice in my last, quite the reverse was the case.

Before concluding, a word or two to Fred T. Skinner, who has come out of his shell (before his time, be it said), to use his own expression, and told us that he also had a finger in the pie, as he took Klyne part of the way, till he met Gibbens. Mr. Skinner wishes, evidently, to leave the impression that the J.P. and his friends frightened Klyne into taking the declaration. This is a straight falsehood, made out of whole cloth.

If Mr. Skinner thinks that he also is a worthy champion for honors, let him apply to the "re-workers," and no doubt they will see to it that he will get an illuminated address or something else, equally commemorative of the occasion. Subjoined is a statement of the returning officer and poll clerk:

I fully corroborate the above statement, both in essentials and details, regarding the conduct of James Gibbens, when Henry Klyne was voting on the railway by-law at polling station No. 1.

(Signed), JOHN WRIGHT, Returning Officer.
JOHN R. DINNIE, Poll Clerk.

THE MARKETS.

Wheat.—The feeling in the wheat market has been rather better from the bull point of view this week, than for many weeks previous. There has been quite a firm tone in the situation and some moderate advances have been made.

Local wheat.—The local market has remained almost as quiet as last week. There has been more wheat coming in at Manitoba country markets and prices paid to farmers have usually been about 50c per bushel, with up to 55c paid at some points for good hard wheat.

Flour.—Locally there is no change. Sales to local trade by millers are made at $1.85 per cwt., and $1.65 bakers, delivered to city dealers, with a discount of 5c per sack for cash.

Butter.—The market is as dull as ever. The few tubs sold on local account range from 10 to 14c as to quality. Prints and rolls are being sold in a retail way at 15 to 25c as to quality.

Cheese.—Dealers are selling at 11c per lb. Eggs.—Fresh, 18c; dried, 17c; old dried, 10c.

Lard.—We quote pure, $1.50 for 20-pound pails and $1.50 for 50-pound pails; compound at $1.75 per 20-pound pail; compound in 2 and 5 pound tins, $5 per case of 60 pounds. Pure leaf lard in 3, 5 and 10 pound tins, quoted at $5.50 per case of 60 pounds; tins 8c per lb.

Poultry.—Locally continues very dull and hard to sell. Chickens have sold at 5c, and ducks at 6c. Geese are quoted at 7 to 8c, and turkeys 9 to 10c.

Hay.—Loose hay on the street market is selling at about $3 per ton; baled hay, $4 per ton delivered here.

Live stock.—There is already a movement to resume export shipments of stock, which is earlier than former years, very little stock having gone out until summer and fall. We quote local prices here at 3c for good butcher's cattle, and 27c for secondary. Hogs 27c off cars for good average packers.

OUR LOCAL MARKET.
Wheat, 48 to 50c; little offering. Oats, wholesale 30c, retail 40c, per bushel. Bran, 80c, per 100 lbs.; 16c per ton. Flour—Huegar, $2.25; Strong Bakers, $2 per sack of 95 lbs. Best per side, 4c; 1 point, 10c; Pork, 14c, per 100 lbs.; 8 to 12c per lb., according to choice. Mutton, 10 to 15c; per lb.; per carcass, 10c. White fish, 6c for quarts; 8c, per lb. Potatoes, 75c per bushel. Cabbage, 15c per lb. Onions 1 lb. for 5c. Hay, $4 to $5 per ton. Butter, 15c, per lb. Cheese, 17c per lb. Eggs 20c per doz.

Give the Farmer Facts.

The average planter has but little use for finely spun theory, whether it pertains to the relation of his condition to politics or whether it deals with the best ways and means of growing the best crops. What he wants is facts. No one has realized this more than the great seed firm of D. M. Ferry & Co., Windsor, Ont., who for forty years have been studying the wants and condition of planters, large and small, and as a result have created the largest seed business in the whole world. Without doubt, a strict adherence to the policy of dealing in facts represents the secret of their success. They know their seeds are right before they are sent to the many thousand dealers from whom the planter gets them. The dealer knows this to be a fact requiring no further question, and the planter finds it to be a substantial fact when harvest time comes. Another illustration of the value of this method is found in Ferry's Seed Annual, in which there is nothing but facts. Facts that prove of the greatest value to every seed planter; facts about how, when and where to plant, that can be had from no other source. There are no worthy facts left out, and no unworthy theories let in. This book is sent free to everyone who asks for it. A post card with your name and address sent the firm will bring it to you.

The Weekly

Nor'-Wester

TILL 1896 FOR $1.00.

The favor with which the Nor'-Wester, as evidenced by the manner in which it has fairly leaped into circulation, has been received, is something almost unprecedented in the world's history of journalism.

"INDEPENDENT—NOT NEUTRAL," is the motto of the Nor'-Wester. It is not the organ of any political party or business enterprise; but is a journal always free to espouse, criticize or condemn the cause or contention of any party or organization—political, commercial or otherwise—as fealty to the Northwest may, upon dispassionate and intelligent consideration, seem to demand.

At the price the Weekly Nor'-Wester is offered to new subscribers—One Dollar from any time hereafter till January 1st, 1896—but the merest fraction over the cost of the white paper used in it is asked. It is the largest Weekly paper published in Canada.

The Old Farmer's Story

(FOUNDED ON FACT)

BY THOMAS S. JERKOLD.

Some years ago, I chanced to be visiting a friend in Devonshire, when, finding ourselves one evening at a loss for amusement, we resolved that one of the party should relate a story.

We had assembled in the morning for the purpose of making an excursion to Haylor Rock, one of the highest points in Devonshire, from which there is a magnificent view of the surrounding country, but were prevented carrying our intention into effect by that great bar to out-door pleasure in England—an incessant rain. For the whole day we had wandered from room to room, sometimes finding a book or picture to occupy our attention for a time, but as evening came on we were quite at a loss to know what to do with ourselves; some of the party were inclined for music, others preferred to sit at the window to watch the rain clouds disperse and show here and there glimpses of a brighter sky, when one of the company suddenly thought of whiling away the time by story-telling. Everyone was delighted with the suggestion, but no one seemed inclined to take the initiative, and we were finally obliged to have recourse to a lottery. No. 1 was drawn by an old man, a farmer living in the neighborhood, who had passed the earlier part of his life in the colonies. Since his return he had never mentioned anything in connection with his sojourn in the antipodes, and as the years he had subsequently passed in his native village were wholly without incident wherewith to form a tale, we all felt extremely anxious to hear the old farmer commence, especially as we insisted that each person's story should be a true one; that the incidents therein should either have happened to the relator or have come personally under his or her observation. After looking thoughtfully at the fire for some few minutes, the old man, with a somewhat tremulous voice, began:

"About thirty years ago a young man sailed from the port of Liverpool to seek his fortune in Australia; the love of adventure had seized upon him, and he could not rest contented in his native village. His father was not what the world would call rich, but had found the means to give his son a fair education. When the lad left school he returned to his father's roof, but soon tired of the busy idleness of his superintending the men who worked on the farm. His great delight on returning home after a day's shooting or fishing, was to sit down and read a book that related to the new colony; the accounts of wonderful adventures so delighted him that he resolved to emigrate, but he was a long time before he found courage to acquaint his parents of his determination. They used all their influence to induce him to remain in England, to stay on the old farm that had been held by their family for more than a century, but all to no avail; Tom had made up his mind to emigrate, and nothing could turn him from his purpose; so finding remonstrance and persuasion useless, his parents did all in their power to make his voyage as comfortable as possible; they provided an outfit, and many little things, that only a loving mother would think of, that might prove useful to him in the bush. They gave their boy all the ready money they possessed, amounting to several hundred pounds, and so with a light heart and well filled pocket, the youth left his father's house.

"His parents' grief was very great indeed at parting with their only child; they knew the years of separation that would pass slowly, lingeringly on, even if time should restore their boy to their arms again; but the lad thought not of time or distance, he was brim full of impetuous young life, and longed to be off and reach that far off land that had held him spell bound so long. Full of strength and hope, he saw himself only as he left his native village, full of life and spirit, and, as he hoped to return to it the hero of a hundred adventures, all happily ended, he never thought of death, except when he imagined himself back in his old home, surrounded by his children, and giving up his last breath in peace, and being laid in the same grave as his forefathers. Youth is thus ever hopeful; it courts danger for the mere love of overcoming it. When he left his native village, and the villagers came to their doors to wish him good luck and give him a parting shake of the hand, a few natural tears started to his eyes, but he brushed them away ashamed of the weakness, as he then thought it, and tried, by talking incessantly to old Bob, the man who was driving, and who had worked for over twenty years on his father's land, to hide the strong emotion that was nearly choking him. On reaching Exeter he slipped half a sovereign into Bob's hand, and giving it a hearty shake, ran into the inn, to avoid all thanks and all regrets that he knew honest old Bob would shower upon him. At the inn yet another trial awaited him. He to go; the baby she had nursed the first time he was brought to Exeter by his father and mother! How every market day she had seen him grow bigger and bigger, and how she had helped him to the seat next to the driver of the coach the first time he left home alone; and now he was going away for ever so many years to some outlandish place, just at the time too when he ought to be making his parents glad with the sight of his handsome face every day, and he settling down in the old place for good, and looking about him for a wife; she had no patience with going away across the sea to no one knows where. But for all the tears would come to her kindly eyes as she bid him good-bye.

"On arriving at Liverpool, the first thing Tom did was to write to his parents; the next to go over the ship in which he intended taking his passage to Australia. The carpenters were busy on board, and very little notice was taken of him as he wandered about the vessel. He heard that there was accommodation for a few cabin passengers, but that all the berths but one had been engaged by a doctor who was emigrating with his family. Tom would willingly have gone in the steerage, but as his parents expressly desired him to take a cabin passage, he hastened to the company's offices and engaged the only remaining berth. The ship was to sail on the following day, and at twelve o'clock she was tugged to the mouth of the broad river Mersey, where she remained till the following ebb tide and a fair wind took her out to sea. For a few days but little was seen of the passengers on deck, but as the sea-sickness which had kept them below abated, they appeared one by one, looking very much washed out and very much rough dried.

"Tom soon made friends with his fellow-passengers. He began by taking notice of the little children, and won his way through them to their parents. The doctor's family consisted of five children, the eldest a girl of about sixteen, and four others—two boys and two girls.

"Tom soon made himself a favorite with all of them but more particularly with Mary, the eldest. Young as they were—she but sixteen, he but twenty—their attachment soon grew into love. In Mary Tom saw all that he had ever dreamed of as lovely in woman; the gentle care of her younger sisters and brothers, her respectful love of her parents, and her delight at being able to help them in any way during the long, tedious voyage, all tended to render her more beautiful in Tom's eyes. Her sweet happy face and lithe girlish figure were the least of her charms.

"How many, many delightful hours were spent on that voyage, while the huge ship plows her way through the mighty sea, when seated together on the deck, the young lovers talked of the past and the future. The life to which they were going was full of unknown charms to them, their cup of joy was filling fast.

HOW MUCH CREAM TO SKIM.

Bad Results From Taking Either Too Little or Too Much.

In creameries, when skimming milk with cream separators the percentage of cream taken usually varies from 10 to 25 and perhaps more. It is decidedly wrong either to take too little or too much cream, and at the same time it must be said that it is nearly impossible to give a fixed rule as to what percentage ought to be taken. By experience we have found it best not to skim below 15 per cent and not above 20 per cent. If too much cream is taken, we will lose only in the quality of the butter, but if too little is taken we will lose both in quality and quantity.

Suppose that we take a low percentage of cream—say 10 per cent. The cream then will of course be too thick, and when churned the churning will be incomplete, even if churned at a lower temperature than usual. The loss of fat in the butter will be larger than usual, and the butter will have a greasy appearance. Besides that it will be very difficult to work on the butter-milk. Consequently the latter can be easily overworked, a fault which never can be remedied when once done. We will also in the skimming lose a larger percentage of butter fat than when we take a larger percentage of cream.

On the other hand, when too much cream is taken, the butter will be of poor quality and will not keep so long, because it will contain too much casein. The churning will take a longer time, which sometimes can affect the quality of the butter, and we are at the same time sure of losing too much fat in the butter-milk. Too much or too little spoils everything, and here, as in everything else, we must find the "golden mean."

There are different opinions as to how much cream ought to be taken, but by experiment we find just this "golden mean" when the well and even ripened cream will churn easily and not take too long or too short for churning. It must be of course taken into consideration that we cannot take the same percentage of cream the whole year round, as that depends upon the season and the richness of butter fat in the milk. In these days of progressive dairying we must do our very best to put a first class article on the market, and if we fully investigate what causes the production of poor butter we will undoubtedly find that many of the causes can be traced to just the mechanical manipulations of butter making, among others how much cream ought to be taken when skimming the milk.—Carl Zetterman.

Prohibit It.

Filled cheese is as pure and simple a fraud as any we know of. It is cheese made from skim-milk mixed with lard, as a substitute for the cream, which fraudulently has been taken off. It is an attempt to realize as much out of an inferior material as can be gained by the genuine product and was never made to lessen the cost of an article of food or to compete with any inferior product, but avowedly with the purpose of reaping a double and illegitimate harvest. Its manufacture ought to be wholly prohibited. It has been and is injuring—yes, ruining—the reputation of full cream cheese, and it certainly is our imperative duty to put a stop to this fraud at once, not only by legislating filled cheese out of existence, but also by improving the full cream cheese by producing and delivering good and honest milk at the factory, there to be manipulated in an understandingly careful manner, never forgetting that the final appearance of the cheese when offered for sale goes far to add to its value.—Hoard's Dairyman.

Dairy and Creamery.

A cow reaches her best at 5 to 6 years old. She continues in her prime, with good treatment, till she is 12 to 15 years old.

A professor in a dairy school says that dairymen may be thoroughly learned in a two years' course. Yes, but the good dairymen is like the good chess player—he is learning all his life. The rich experience of a wide awake, brainy creamery man or dairymen cannot be got from any school, though the school is the best possible base on which to build experience.

Mr. C. P. Goodrich says he has had heifers that produced 300 pounds of butter the first year. This is a remarkable record. But Mr. Goodrich is one of America's remarkable dairymen. It is his knowledge and skill both in breeding and management that brought heifers to that point.

Warm the calf's feed thoroughly and carefully in cold weather.

Creamery men and dairymen must be gentlemen in dress, manners and morals. The gentleman makes his way twice as quickly as the boor. Not the least of the good influences of the dairy schools will be the neatness and courtesy that they will inculcate.

Don't let your milkhouse be near the barnyard, pigpens or kitchen sink.

C. P. Goodrich of Jefferson county.

Wis., says, "My cows consume on an average in a year three tons of good corn silage and one ton of clover hay, other fodder, straw, etc., perhaps equal to half a ton more, 1 1/2 tons of bran and gluten meal and about three-quarters of an acre of pasture."

The farther off from calving a cow is the richer her milk is in cheese producing solids, and the less of it is required to make a pound of cheese. This is balanced on the other hand, however, by the fact that a cow's milk shrinks in quantity as she recedes from calving time.

It is given up that the cream separator produces more and better butter than the setting process. It will not pay anybody to go into the dairy business without a cream separator. We hope in a very short time that some genius will invent a cream separator small enough for use by the average farmer's family having only four or five cows. That is the next step in the path of progress. We do not see why this cannot be done.

Ceremony.

"I think there is a great deal of difference between that species of ceremony which exists with acquaintance and that which should always exist with the best of friends—the one prevents the growth of affection; the other preserves it in youth and age."—Letters of Maria Edgeworth.

TWO-THIRDS

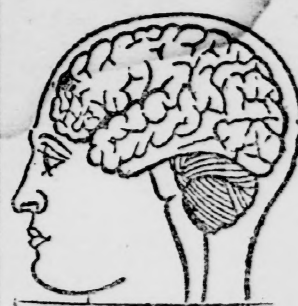

OF ALL

OUR DISEASES & AILMENTS

ARE CAUSED BY

DERANGED NERVE CENTRES

AT THE BASE OF THE BRAIN.

LATE discoveries have absolutely proven that the Stomach, Liver, Lungs, and indeed all internal organs, are controlled by the nerve centres at the base of the brain. The manufacturer of THE GREAT SOUTH AMERICAN NERVE TONIC AND STOMACH AND LIVER CURE has studied this subject closely for more than twenty-five years, and has lately demonstrated that two-thirds of our Chronic Diseases, are due to the imperfect action of nerve centres, either within or at the base of the brain, and not from a derangement of the organs themselves; hence that the ordinary methods of treatment are wrong.

As all know, a serious injury to the spinal cord will at once cause Paralysis of the body below the injured part; it therefore will be equally well understood how the derangement of the nerve centres will cause the derangement of the different organs of the body which they supply with Nerve Fluid or Nerve Force.

The wonderful success of SOUTH AMERICAN NERVE is due alone to the fact that it is based on the foregoing principle. The use of a single bottle of this remedy will convince the most incredulous. It is, indeed, a veritable Nerve Food and WILL RELIEVE IN ONE DAY the varied forms of Nervous Disease and Stomach Troubles.

Nervous Diseases.

This class of diseases is rapidly increasing each year, on account of the great war our mode of living and labor imposes upon the nervous system. Nine-tenths of all the ailments to which the human family is heir, are dependent upon nervous exhaustion, impaired digestion, and a deteriorated and impoverished condition of the blood. THE SOUTH AMERICAN NERVE is a great nerve food and nerve builder, and this accounts for its marvellous power to cure the varied forms of nervous disease, such as Neuralgia, Nervousness, Nervous Prostration, St. Vitus's Dance, Nervous Choking, Nervous Paroxysms, Twitching of the Muscles, Hot Flashes, Mental Despondency, Forgetfulness, Sleeplessness, Restlessness, Nervousness of Females, Palpitation of the Heart, Sexual Weakness, etc., etc.

In Bed Six Years

HARTFORD CITY, Blackford Co., Indiana, June 8, '93.

South American Medicine Co.

GENTLEMEN: I received a letter from you May 27, stating that you had heard of my wonderful recovery from a spell of sickness of six years duration, through the use of SOUTH AMERICAN NERVE, and asking for my testimonial. I will gladly state how I was afflicted and how I was delivered from my pain and suffering. I was near thirty-five years old, when I took down with nervous prostration. Our family physician treated me, but without benefiting me in the least. My nervous system seemed to be entirely shattered, and I constantly had very severe shaking spells. In addition to this I would have vomiting spells, and there would be from eighteen to twenty days at a time that I could not retain anything on my stomach. Many consultations were held by physicians over my case, but they all agreed that I would never leave my bed. During the years I lay sick, my folks had an eminent physician from Dayton, Ohio, and two from Columbus, Ohio, to come and examine me. They all said I could not live. I got to having spells like spasms, and would lie cold and stiff for a time after each. At last I lost the use of my body—could not rise from my bed or walk a step, and had to be lifted like a child; all the time suffering intense pain, and taking almost every known medicine. But of the time I could read a little, and one day saw an advertisement of your medicine and concluded to try one bottle. By the time I had taken one and one-half bottles, I could rise up and take a step or two by being helped, and after I had taken five bottles in all I felt real well. The shaking went away gradually, and I could eat and sleep good, and my friends could scarcely believe it was I. I am sure this medicine is the best in the world. It was a god-send to me, and I believe it saved my life. I give my name and address, so that if any one doubts my statement they can write me, or our postmaster, or any citizen, as all are acquainted with my case. I am now forty-one years of age, and expect to live as long as the Lord has use for me and do all the good I can in helping the suffering.

A Big Dollar's Worth

The Winnipeg Weekly Tribune, which is acknowledged to have—even by rival publishers—the largest circulation of any paper published in Canada west of Lake Superior, is now offering great inducements to intending subscribers. It can be obtained from now to January 1st, 1896, for $1—a very slight advance on the cost of the white paper used in its publication. At its regular price of $1 a year The Weekly Tribune is certainly extra value, and with the balance of this year free the offer becomes an extraordinary one. The fact that the Weekly Tribune reaches more homes in the North-West than any other paper published, is strong evidence that it is recognized as the great family newspaper. It publishes Dr. Talmage's sermon each week, and gives more Manitoba and North-West news from its own correspondents than all other Winnipeg papers combined. This is especially interesting to the settler, as almost every district is represented. It can be had from now to the end of next year by sending $1 to the Tribune Publishing Co., Winnipeg.

Local and General

—Mr. Chas. Howson, Regina, has been spending a few days in town.

—Mr. Gordon, of Gordon & Ironsides, has been around taking notes.

—Mrs. S. T. Scott and children arrived from the east on Friday morning's train.

—Mr. R. Johnston, livery, has sold out his business to Messrs. Urquhart and Telford.

—The Welsh Disestablishment Bill has passed the English House of Commons without a division.

—An old resident of Qu'Appelle, Mr. T. T. Thompson, was in town on Sunday, renewing acquaintances.

—Daniel Campbell has been acquitted at Whitewood, on the charge of embezzlement of the Whitewood Agricultural Society's funds.

—Major Bell, who seeks the nomination for the Dominion House in the Conservative interest, has been interviewing the local electors.

—We are sorry to have to report the very serious illness of Mrs. Grey, mother of the brothers John, Thomas and Andrew Grey, who are among our oldest residents.

—Mr. Davin's star is in the ascendant. J. K. McInnis, of the Standard, has been chosen by the Patrons to oppose him for parliament.—Saskatchewan Herald.

—The Saltcoats Assiniboian, referring to the east iron pledges of the Patron candidates, should they be elected, says it would be cheaper and equally as effective to send a postal card.

—A meeting of the directors of the South Qu'Appelle Agricultural Society was held in the Council Chamber on Saturday afternoon, when some very important business was transacted, as will be seen by the report published elsewhere.

—S. Pe'er's Women's Guild will resume its meetings every Friday at the vicarage, at 2:30 p.m., beginning Friday, March 15. Applications for work will be received by any of the officers of the guild for all kinds of plain and fancy work.

—The Mission Band concert was a complete success, both financially and as a musical treat. The programme was varied and well rendered, and all present thoroughly enjoyed it. The promoters of the concert are to be congratulated on their success, and it is to be hoped that the object of the meeting will not soon be forgotten.

—Do not miss the entertainment in the public hall to-morrow night, rise you will miss one of the sights of your life time. The Progress representative has had the privilege of being present at several of the rehearsals, and judging from the clever manner in which the several performers went through their work, cannot but predict an enjoyable treat for those fortunate enough to be present.

—A meeting to consider the best means of entertaining His Honor the Lieut.-Governor, on his intended visit to Qu'Appelle on Saturday, the 9th inst., was held in the Queen's Hotel on Saturday night. After some discussion it was decided to present His Honor with a combined address from the Municipal Council, Board of Trade and Agricultural Society, in the Council Chamber in the afternoon. A committee was also appointed to see to his entertainment socially in the evening. The absence of our member of the Legislative Assembly from the meeting has been pretty freely commented on.

—We wish to call the attention of our readers to the advertisement elsewhere calling a meeting of the Conservative Association on Wednesday, the 13th inst., in order to appoint delegates to attend the meeting of the Central Association on the 20th inst., when the choice of a candidate to carry the banner of the Liberal-Conservative party for Eastern Assiniboia in the coming Dominion election will be made. This is a matter which concerns every true Conservative, and fraught with serious issues, and it behoves every member of the Association to be present, or forever hold their peace. A bumper attendance is hoped for.

—Several miscreants have of late been strewing poison around town, presumably for the purpose of poisoning dogs, and have succeeded in some cases, we are informed. Let these parties beware, or they may meet with the punishment such mean, dastardly conduct deserves.

—A map of the present electoral districts in Manitoba is very seasonably published with the March issue of Waghorn's Guide. The map will be found very useful and convenient in view of the interest taken in the question of a Dominion election, and the publishers are to be congratulated on providing for the wants of their numerous subscribers so effectively. The Guide, as usual contains the latest changes in railway and ocean time cards, new post offices, mail changes and stage routes, etc., weather record almanac and general tables of information on all matters of interest and use to business men and travellers.

—For an example of unmitigated cheek, commend us to the report of the Regina bonspiel published by the Standard, in as far as it is stated in commenting on the absence of the Qu'Appelle curlers, that the bonspiel had been postponed at their request. We are assured that any such request was never made, much less thought of, by any of the curlers. Furthermore, if the bonspiel had taken place on the date originally decided upon, two rinks at least would have been present, but on account of the changing of the date, many members of the rinks had engagements to fulfil which could not honorably be avoided. This is the true reason of their absence.

Spencerville Splashes.

A large hawk was seen flying round a few days ago, and as he ventured too near the habitation of one of our sportsmen, he paid the penalty of his rashness. Query—Would the spring-like weather have continued if the death-dealing tube had not been levelled at him?

A rumor is floating on the breezy health-giving atmosphere of the prairie, to the effect that a young lady who has lately been visiting friends in town, and one of our young bachelors, intend entering into a life partnership.

On Monday evening, 25th ult., Mount Prospect was culminated by a party of friends who enjoyed themselves thoroughly; but who was it that met with an accident while driving home?

February seems to have been elusie this year, for I notice the Agricultural Society's reunion took place on the 31st inst., for so it is stated in the paper of the 28th. Was it the type or the printer that got mixed?

On the evening of the 21st ult., a few intimate friends spent a pleasant evening at Prairie View, Mr. Isaac Hardy's residence. All at parting expressed their regret that a good time had to come to an end.

Lakeside cottage was the scene, on the 19th, of an impromptu hop. Some friends from Strathearn dropped in and hoed it down in good shape till morning drew near.

Mr. John Woods spent Sunday at a friend's house in the bluffs. His country friends are pleased to see that his development is still upward.

It is rumored that the well anger which has benefitted so many of Edgely's neighbors, is to be run by the parties themselves who want it, without the aid of a practical supervisor. Still it may only be a rumor, although a good many people think it will be fair.

SHADOWS.

I cannot tell, I cannot tell!
How came such freaks of light and shade,
'Twas but last night in yonder dell,
Two figures in the moonlight strayed.

The like before I never knew,
I almost think of it with dread;
For oft the shadows that they threw
Had, who'd believe it? but one head!

To me the case was passing strange;
For well I knew, doubt it who will,
That simultaneous with each change
Both figures suddenly stood still.

I wonder now and wondered then,
If'er such things took place before;
For when the two moved on again
Each shadow had a head once more.

To Lubin I have told the tale,
And he appears to have no doubt
That if we try the moonlit vale
We soon shall find the secret out.

—Truth.

ONLY ONE.

There was once a little girl—and the only reason there is none such now, is that she has grown a big girl now—who talked of everything in the plural. Especially was she likely, at table, to ask for "forks," "spoons," or "potatoes," when it was "only one of the articles that she really desired.

One day her papa said to her at dinner: "Kitty, don't ask for biscuits. Say 'Please give me a biscuit.' You don't want more than one at a time."

"No, papa," was the dutiful answer; but presently came the request: "Please may I have some rolls?" "A roll," corrected her father, and she repeated the words correctly.

Then all went well until the cheese was handed round, and this Kitty was not usually allowed to eat. Yet she delighted in it, and realized that her success in obtaining a bit might be determined by her manner of asking for it. Leaning forward, she said anxiously, in a soft, sweet voice: "Papa, will you please give me a chee?"

He—"My income is small, and perhaps it is cruel to take you from your father's roof." She—"I don't live on the roof."

What is the difference between a hill and a pill? One is hard to get up and the other is hard to get down.

In Denmark, girls are trained to agriculture, but in this country they take more kindly to husbandry.

What animal would you like to be on a cold day? A little otter.

A big mis-take—marrying a fat girl.
